INTERNATIONAL EMERGING MARKETS MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM

ASNC instituted a new membership category in October 2013 – International Developing Country. This special membership is for physicians and scientists residing in developing countries, as defined by the World Bank Developing Countries List. Individuals who have earned an advanced degree (MD, DO, PhD, or equivalent), are in good standing in their respective communities, and are actively engaged in nuclear medicine and/or cardiology practice are eligible to receive a membership in this category.

These members enjoy all of the benefits of ASNC by receiving discounts on educational products and programs, online access to the Journal of Nuclear Cardiology (JNC) along with a reduced annual meeting registration rate available only to international developing country members.

This is a way for companies to help support physicians (cardiologists, radiologists, and nuclear medicine physicians) who want additional education and resources in nuclear cardiology from ASNC. Together we can help play a leading role by empowering physicians to deliver high quality care, utilizing standards, protocols, guidelines, and other resources, such as the JNC, to support and enhance their practice.

Your company will be recognized in a customized welcome letter to prospective members along with acknowledgment for your generous support of this membership program. Your company will also be highlighted on the International Developing Country membership page as a corporate supporter of this membership program.
